

2021 US ESSENTIAL JOURNAL STUDY UPDATE

The Essential Journal Study is an independent benchmark study of the print and digital journals that physicians say are essential to their practice. In 2021, the 2019 Essential Journal Study was supplemented with additional survey results. The study was conducted by direct mail and email in its characteristic unaided format, with respondents being asked to write in the names of the journals they viewed as Essential. An Essential Journal contains content that changes how physicians practice, offers them vital practice information, and is viewed as a “must read.” Consistent with past studies, physicians in the specialties surveyed drew a clear distinction between the top three essential journals and the rest in their field. The identity of NEJM as the study sponsor was withheld.

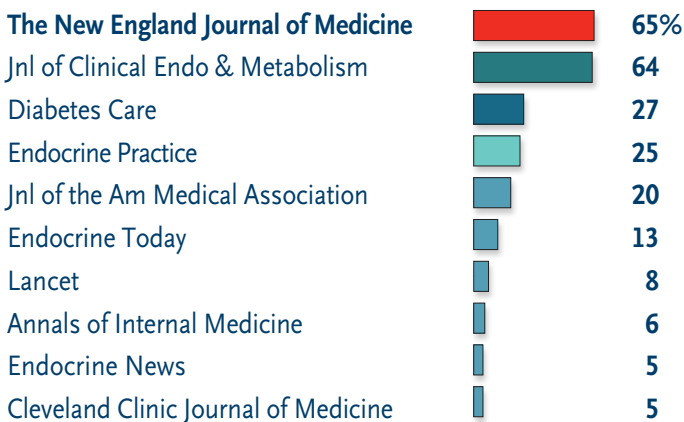

TOP TEN ESSENTIAL CARDIOLOGY JOURNALS

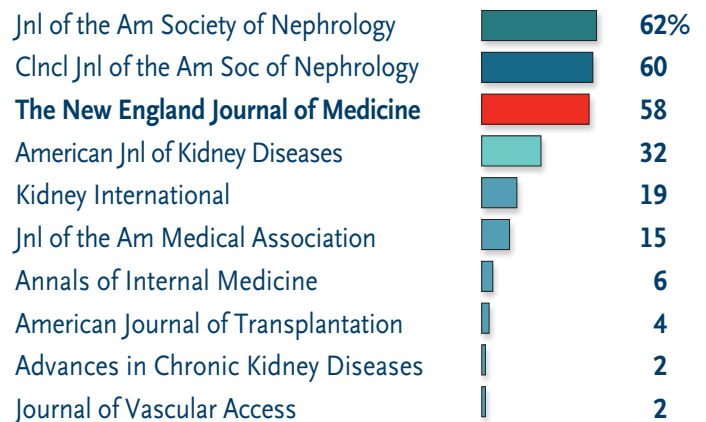

TOP TEN ESSENTIAL INTERNAL MEDICINE JOURNALS

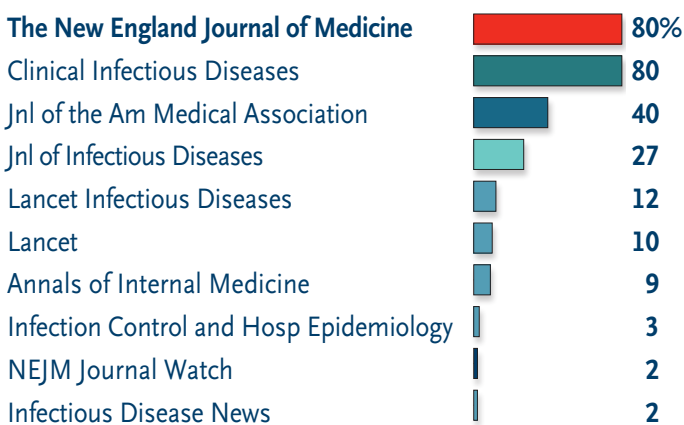

TOP TEN ESSENTIAL ENDOCRINOLOGY JOURNALS

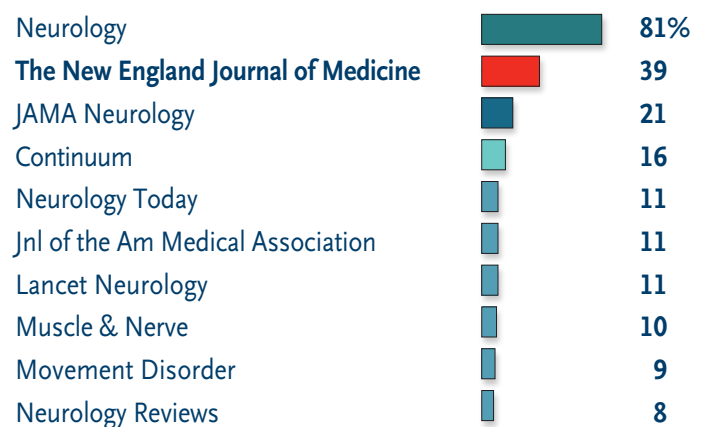

TOP TEN ESSENTIAL NEPHROLOGY JOURNALS

TOP TEN ESSENTIAL INFECTIOUS DISEASE JOURNALS

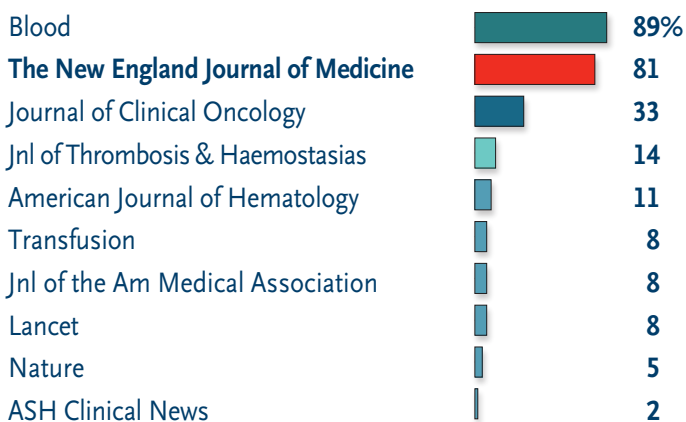

TOP TEN ESSENTIAL NEUROLOGY JOURNALS

The NEW ENGLAND
JOURNAL of MEDICINE

TOP TEN ESSENTIAL HEMATOLOGY JOURNALS

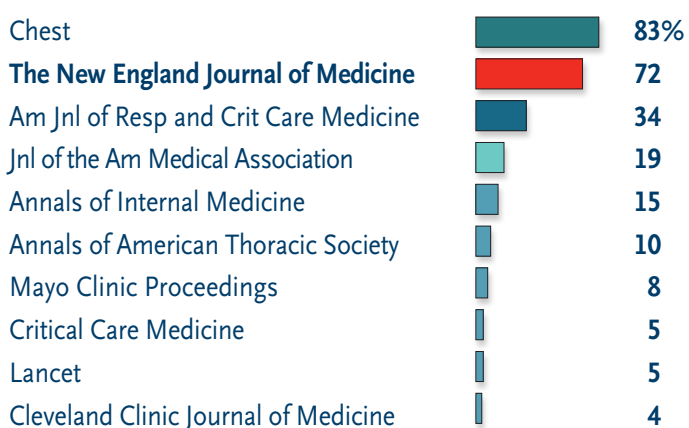

TOP TEN ESSENTIAL HEMATOLOGY/ONCOLOGY & HEMATOLOGY & ONCOLOGY JOURNALS

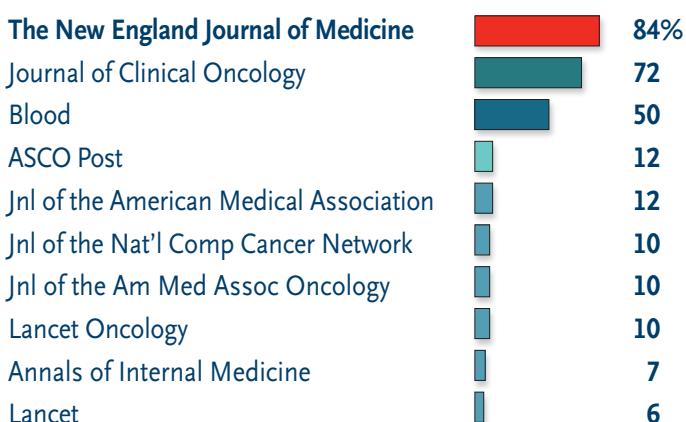

TOP TEN ESSENTIAL ONCOLOGY JOURNALS

TOP TEN ESSENTIAL PULMONOLOGY JOURNALS

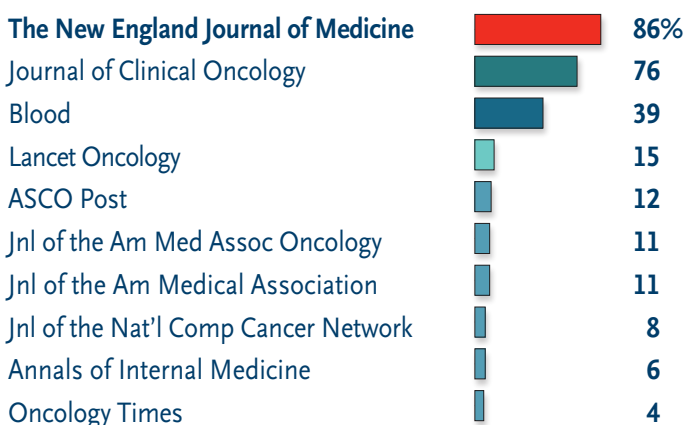

TOP TEN ESSENTIAL HEMATOLOGY/ONCOLOGY JOURNALS

TOP TEN ESSENTIAL RHEUMATOLOGY JOURNALS

TOP TEN ESSENTIAL HEMATOLOGY/ONCOLOGY & ONCOLOGY JOURNALS

TO FIND OUT MORE

about essential journals and their value to medical marketers, contact your NEJM Sales Director or visit NEJMadsales.org.

- Meg Ainley (773) 327-5917; mainley@nejm.org
- Chrissy Miller (508) 775-3995; cmiller@nejm.org
- Corrie Bridgeman (781) 775-1287; cbridgeman@nejm.org
- Andrew McGuire (973) 771-8926; amcguire@nejm.org

The NEW ENGLAND
JOURNAL of MEDICINE